

Wood Type	Texture Type	Characteristic	Texture
Teak	Simple	homogeneous lines texture	 A photograph showing a close-up of teak wood planks. The wood has a warm, golden-brown color and a smooth, uniform grain pattern with subtle, consistent lines running horizontally across the surface.
Teak	Classic	unhomogeneous lines texture	 A photograph showing a close-up of teak wood planks. The wood has a warm, golden-brown color and a more complex grain pattern with prominent, wavy, and irregular lines running horizontally across the surface, creating a more textured and varied appearance.

Teak	Ocularis	with wood eye	 A close-up photograph of a teak wood floor. The planks are arranged in a staggered pattern. The wood has a warm, golden-brown hue with prominent, swirling 'wood eye' patterns that create a complex, organic texture.
Teak	Bianco	with sapwood	 A close-up photograph of a teak wood floor. The planks are arranged in a staggered pattern. The wood has a warm, golden-brown hue with prominent, swirling 'sapwood' patterns that create a complex, organic texture.

Teak	Rustic Colonial	with dark texture
Teak	Antique	combination between Ocularis and Rustic Colonial

Merbau	Premium	homogeneous straight lines texture	 A close-up photograph of Merbau Premium wood. The planks are arranged in a staggered pattern, showing a consistent, straight grain across the entire surface. The color is a warm, uniform reddish-brown.
Merbau	Classic	midly curvy lines texture	 A close-up photograph of Merbau Classic wood. The planks are arranged in a staggered pattern, showing a grain that is slightly wavy or curved. The color is a warm, reddish-brown, similar to the Premium grade but with more variation in the grain pattern.

Palisander	Rustic Simple	simple lines texture	 A close-up image of a wood surface with a 'simple lines texture'. The wood grain is composed of relatively straight, parallel lines that run horizontally across the frame. The color palette is a range of warm browns, from light tan to deep, dark chocolate and near-black tones, creating a subtle, rhythmic pattern.
Palisander	Rustic	rustic lines texture	 A close-up image of a wood surface with a 'rustic lines texture'. The wood grain is more irregular and varied than the 'simple lines' texture. It features a mix of straight and wavy lines, with some areas showing more pronounced, swirling grain patterns. The color palette is similar to the first image but includes more variation, with some lighter, almost white highlights and darker, more saturated red-brown tones, giving it a more aged and textured appearance.

Palisander	Vario	with sapwood
Palisander	Bianco	white palisander without sapwood	